

September 5th, 2017

Elgin Lower Elementary Monday Folder

IMPORTANT NOTICE

The cafeteria is open at 7:45am ONLY for students that eat breakfast.

There is NO SUPERVISION for parent drop-offs before 8:00 a.m.

-Pre-K students report to the Pre-K Hall with the class assistants.

-Kindergarten students report to the library.

-1st grade students report to the hallway outside of their teacher's class where they are monitored by teachers on duty.

Thank you for your Continued support!

Calendar of Events

- September 8th – Grandparents Day (Must RSVP)
- September 12th - Lower Elementary Rise and Shine @ 8:30am
- September 12th – Board Meeting
- September 21st - Title I Meeting
- September 22nd - Parent Teacher Conferences
- October 2nd- 6th-Homecoming Week
- October 9th – First 6 Weeks Grade Reports go Home
- October 12th- Board Meeting
- October 19th- Picture Day
- October 20th -23rd- Fall Break
- September 28 – Lower Elementary Fundraiser Assembly (1:30)
- September 28 – Upper Elementary Fundraiser Assembly (2:30)

REMINDER

Reminder to Parents:

-Please pay your lunch bill.

Students who owe cafeteria charges will not be allowed to go on Field Trips.

Attitude

LIFE IS 10%
WHAT HAPPENS
TO YOU AND
90% HOW YOU
REACT TO IT

- CHARLES R. SWINDOLL -

10 Reasons to Read to Your Child

1. Children who are read to consistently by their parents often begin reading earlier than their peers.
2. Reading time is great bonding time.
3. Reading to your children gives you an inside look at what they are interested in.
4. Children who are read to develop a love of reading.
5. Following a character's actions in a story helps develop problem solving skills.
6. Reading to children helps to develop their imaginations and builds vocabulary.
7. Children's emotions are easily validated through story reading.
8. Sharing stories about controversial or difficult topics is a good way to launch a conversation with your child.
9. Reading to a child teaches a healthy coping strategy.
10. Children will pass on the love of reading to their children if they have been read to.